song. It typically contains the main message, hook, or the central idea of the composition. The chorus is often catchy and memorable, making it easy for listeners to sing along. Bridge: The bridge is a contrasting section that adds variety to the song and provides a departure from the repetitive nature of the verse and chorus. It typically comes after the second chorus and offers a new perspective, melody, or chord progression. It provides a sense of resolution and can serve as a buildup to the final chorus or outro. Hook: The hook is a memorable phrase or line that captures the attention of the listener. It is often repeated throughout the song, including in the chorus, and serves as a catchy and memorable element that sticks in the mind of the audience. The hook is designed to be instantly recognizable and can be instrumental in making a song stand out. Outro: The outro, also known as the coda, is the closing section of a song. It usually comes after the final chorus or bridge and serves as a way to bring the composition to a conclusion. The outro can be a repetition of the chorus or a fading instrumental section, providing a sense of closure and leaving a lasting impression on the listener.
